In this eBook you will find in details about the perpetual cycle of change which has created the face of the Earth, with all its rugged and fascinating variety, usually happens too slowly to be noticed. But occasionally it is rapid and violent. Volcanoes disgorge molten lava, earthquakes rip open the landscape, and landslides carry away whole mountainsides. Then human beings become aware of the awesome forces that are shaping their planet.

These forces are fuelled by three powerful sources of energy – heat from within the Earth, heat from the Sun, and the force of gravity. Every landform in the world has been shaped by these three energy sources.
