Humanity's Greatest Discovery Mr. Robert Keller

HUMANITY'S GREATEST DISCOVERY deals with the most ancient question, "If someone dies, can that person live again?" We process how and why, assess the state of science about God, touch on philosophy's spectrum and provide practical help about prayer. The book is a dialogue among hitchhikers on an RV journey, with the faithful dog. The book is keyed to Dr. Wilder Penfield's observation, "It is clear that to survive death, the mind must establish a connection with a source of energy other than the brain." This is a book for those to whom that makes perfect sense. ===== An unsolicited comment by a reader (yes, a friend): [Regarding the information presented:] "a great, low key, humble and informal presentation of a vast span..." My friend notes that "the format was relational, conversational, and easily accessible." [He holds a Master's degree, so other readers' comments on "accessible" are something we will watch for. But people who are capable of thinking at the Master level are important too! And you may be, with or without degree(s)!]
